(b) if so, what steps are taken to prevent misappropriation of funds allotted under JRY?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT (DEPARTMENT OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT): (SHRI RAMESHWAR THAKUR): (a) and (b) A number of State and Central Government officials have visited JRY works in different States during 1991-92 and 1992-93. Since JRY is implemented by about 2.20 lakhs village panchayats all over the country, the State Governments have drawn up a programme of inspection of these works by senior officers, from the State|District|Block level who are required to inspect the works in the villages|district at a frequency decided by the State Level Coordination Committee. This is supplemented by the visits of Central Government officers from the Ministry of Rural Development, who have been assigned hpecific areas for such visits and follow-up. Monthly and quarterly reports are prescribed for a regular flow of information from the districts to the State and the Central Governments to monitor the performance of the programme periodically.

The system of checks and balances is built into the Jawahar Rozgar Yojana (JRY) to prevent misutilisation of funds. Under the JRY Manual the resources under JRY allocated to the village panchayats are kept in a bank or a post office in an exclusive and separate savings bank account to be operated jointly by the Sarpanch and another person nominated by the Panchayat. Every drawal from the bank is required to be authorised in the meeting of the village panchayat. The account of DRDA|Zilla Parishads|Gram Panchayats are subjected to a regular audit on the basis of which further funds are released. Meetings of the village panchayats are to be held every month on a fixed date and time in which every member of the village community can raise any issue regarding implementation of JRY. Where the village panchayats are not in existence, their share of funds will have to be passed on to the concerned Block Samiti which will be responsible for implementing the JRY in these panchayats through "administrators" appointed for the purpose.
